

PROFESSORS WINNERS IN CHESS MEET

Team Proved Superior in Hot Contest

EXPERT PLAY

Fast Work on Both Sides Made Issue Doubtful

Press Box Lounge Room—(Special to the McGill Daily)—In a contest that lasted many hours the McGill Chess team went down to defeat last night at the hands of the Professors' Team to the tune of a 4-1 score. There were moments when the issue of the match was exceedingly doubtful, but when the atmosphere finally cleared it was found that the members of the Faculty were so far in the lead as to assure them the victory.

A little after 8 o'clock the room was plunged into deep silence. All disturbances ceased as the players took their place and the chessmen were put into position. Pipes and cigarettes were lit and intense meditation on the part of both teams began. The play was on in earnest.

The usual crowd of enthusiasts was present. While the rosters for the Red and White outnumbered those for the Professors much enthusiasm, (silent though it was) was manifested and various looks of approbation and disgust, with occasional chuckles or grins thrown in here and there, were to be noticed. Altogether the calibre of the rooting was of such a nature as to provide the greatest encouragement to the participants.

The play was intense. No man started—the teams pulling together splendidly. The professors, with grim determination painted all over their features—determination to wipe out their defeat of last year, played brilliantly. The scoring was close throughout and hopes ran high for both sides.

The students, who had been training for the past week and a half, were in the pink of condition. It is reported that some of the McGill men ceased studies several weeks ago in order that they might supply up their intellects for the encounter. This rumor must have some foundation since the form of the players for the Red and White was regarded with marked favor by the many enthusiasts present.

The match was of long duration although the play fast. There was no sleeping on either side. Each man stood to his post well and the acuteness of the attack, the strategy, and the keenness of the play aroused widespread comment.

It is stated by some of the older men in chess circles around college that the event last night was a historic one in the history of McGill chess. Historic or otherwise the contest was of such a nature as to cause the greatest satisfaction among even the most pessimistic and skeptical players of the game around college.

The play was as follows:

HOW A POOR POSSUM SUDDENLY CHANGED INTO A SOCCER BALL

"Why are they trying to hit the poor little thing?" asked a sweet young innocent yesterday on the Campus. The poor little thing referred to, seemed to be some kind of possum that had curled itself up into a ball and gone asleep in the branch of a tree. Several red and white shirted worthies were industriously firing a soccer ball at the animal. Just about the time that the sweet young thing was on the point of calling an officer of the S. P. C. A. it was explained to her that it was only a soccer ball which had lodged there during the practice.

All attempts to knock the ball out of the fork in the tree that held it failed. Several of the best shots on the team tried their luck, but no avail. The ball refused to be dislodged. Several of the soccerites grabbed the tree in their fierce embrace and shook the tree with all their might but there were no Samsons among them and there the ball rested.

It was then that some brilliant young man suggested that a member of the team climb the tree and get the ball. It was decided unanimously that the best tree-climber on the team was

PLANS FOR JUNIOR PROM. COMPLETED

Meeting of Committee Held Last Friday Evening

MENZIES' ORCHESTRA

Popular College Jazz Band Will Furnish Music

With the major details completed, the Junior Prom, two weeks from today is expected to reach a height of excellence that has not been approached in recent years. The committee held its second meeting last Friday evening. The details of the prom, were discussed, and among other things, it was decided to engage Cliff Menzies' orchestra. Those who have attended the jazz teas will need no introduction to this band, which will impart sweet harmony to the guests.

The committee for the organization of the Junior Promenade held its second meeting last Friday evening. Much miscellaneous business was discussed and disposed of.

It was decided that the dance be held on Friday evening the 28th of November and that Cliff Menzies' seven piece orchestra furnish the music. This orchestra is certainly among the best in the city and since several of its members are Juniors it was considered most appropriate to have it furnish the music for this occasion.

The question of tickets, their price and allotment was also discussed. No definite monetary value was placed upon them but it is safe to surmise that the price will not be any higher than it was last year. Tickets will be allotted to the various faculties on a pro rata basis as has been done in former years. This seems a satisfactory method of solving the difficult problem caused by the great demand for tickets for this ever popular event.

Since the Union Ball Room has been chosen, it would seem that the Committee is willing to act upon the suggestion of the President of the Union, T. F. M. Newton, who advised less decoration than usual and asked the Subcommittee on December 1 to exercise the utmost care in adorning the newly finished interior. He thought it a good idea to spend the money saved in the curtailing of decorating expenses upon refreshments, thereby swelling the cafeteria receipts.

It was further decided to conduct a competition with a view to obtaining suggestions for the design of the dance programme. Details of this competition will be found in the Notice column. The design selected will entitle its creator to a free ticket to the Prom., which in itself is a worthwhile reward for any effort expended.

Taken all in all, everything possible points to a most successful dance. "The Graduating Class of 1926 is fully determined that the social event of its Junior Year will remain most pleasant memory which the passing years will efface only with the greatest of difficulties," said a prominent member of the committee.

NEW DISCOVERIES BY PROF. LLOYD

Interesting Facts About "Mermaid Tresses" To-day

The question which the lecturer will discuss at the meeting this afternoon is one which has interested some of the leading botanists since the '60's, especially Anton de Bary, C. B. Overton, Klebs and others.

As the result of intensive research on one of the fresh water algae found growing on the banks of the St. Lawrence at Verdun, Professor Lloyd is able to throw much new light on the physical and physiological processes involved in the fusion of the gametes, as the sexual cells are called.

The plant on which Professor Lloyd has worked, known as Spirogyra longata is one of the fresh water forms known collectively as "water silk" or poetically as mermaid's tresses," although Professor Lloyd tells us that it is probably hardly to be expected that mermaids would inhabit fresh water. Contrary to the case in the majority of plants and animals, there is little difference between the sexual reproductive elements in Spirogyra. They are relatively large and when they can be found they are favorite objects for demonstrating processes of sexual reproduction reduced to its most primitive terms to students of Biology and Physiology. In spite of this however and the ease with which the material can be obtained, we have until now remained quite ignorant of some of the most important processes involved in the mechanism. Professor Lloyd has made photomicrographs of the living material in which every detail of its description is clearly seen. It must particularly be emphasized that the photographs (which number in all 100 negatives) are made from the living material during the progress of events which Professor Lloyd will describe in detail at his lecture this afternoon. He promises the interviewer, however that he will not attempt to show all his photographs but a selection which will sufficiently illustrate the account which he proposes to give.

The nature of the problem, the Professor said, may be appreciated by an illustration taken from familiar things. Suppose that we have joined two hens' eggs together by a minute opening, say an eighth of an inch in diameter. If now the contents of one of these eggs should subsequently flow into and mingle with the contents of the other egg so that the total volume of the two eggs is now condensed into two-thirds of one, we should have a fairly good conception of the nature of the process. It looks superficially as though this was making two eggs occupy the same place at the same time, and it is in explanation of this apparent paradox with which in part the lecturer this afternoon will deal.

The address will appeal not only to those interested in Botany but to Physiologists and those interested in the physico-chemical aspects of Physiology.

AMERICANS WILL HOLD FUNCTIONS

Thanksgiving Dinner And Smoker on Programme

A Thanksgiving banquet for American students and their friends will be held in the Prince of Wales Salon at the Windsor Hotel, under the auspices of the American Club. The banquet was decided upon during a meeting which was held in the Union yesterday, at 5 o'clock in the Music Room. Large numbers of the American boys turned out and many suggestions were offered and great interest was shown. It was a spirited meeting and a tremendous success. The banquet will take place on November 27th, and the hour will be announced in the Daily.

After the banquet there will be dancing. The Montreal American Women's Club are also holding a dance and banquet there on the same night, thus all those who will attend will be guaranteed a splendid time. It was also decided during the meeting that a smoker will be held under the patronage of the American Club on Thursday night November 28th at about 8:30 in the Union Grill.

The United States Consul will be present at this smoker. There will also be a novelty entertainment in the form of a few boxing bouts. All the American students should do their best to be on hand at this smoker, because further details of the banquet and dance will be discussed. The boys are all anxious to make the dance a success. Full particulars with regards to tickets, price and where tickets may be bought will be announced in the Daily. Dr. Oertel who is Honorary President will be present at the smoker.

MALE SUPREMACY IN THE BALANCE

Debate Between Societe Franc-aise and Cercle Francais

At 7.45 o'clock on Tuesday evening Nov. 18th there will be held a joint meeting of the Cercle Francais and the Societe Francaise in the Ball Room of the Union. There will be a debate followed by a dance; refreshments will be served. It is expected that there will be a large attendance, since membership of these organizations is very large this year.

The subject of the debate is. Resolved that man not woman, constitutes the weaker sex (Il est resolu que l'homme et non la femme est le sexe faible). The affirmative will be sustained by three R. V. C. students, Misses Rattner, Perrin and Carl. While three men students, Wilson, Gauthier, and Gaboriau, will speak for the negative.

After the debate there will be a dance and refreshments. There will be adequate music for the dancing, which will be continued until twelve o'clock. In order that there may be plenty of time for the many activities of this evening, the meeting is to commence rather early—at seven forty-five o'clock. The debate proper will require something more than an hour, directly after which there will be a discussion on the subject of the debate—and then will come the refreshments and the dancing.

and dance will be discussed. The boys are all anxious to make the dance a success. Full particulars with regards to tickets, price and where tickets may be bought will be announced in the Daily. Dr. Oertel who is Honorary President will be present at the smoker.

JAZZ TEA IN THE UNION YESTERDAY

Fred Gross's Orchestra Made A Great Hit

Connoisseurs of Jazz pastry and tea once more had occasion to express varied opinions when Fred Gross's seven piece orchestra, together with the indispensable Pierre, put over yesterday afternoon in the Cafeteria as successful a jazz tea as any this year.

Fred Gross and his orchestra have been famous in Montreal's world of jazz, yet this was their first appearance in the Union. Judging by the crowd and its enthusiasm, it will not be their last. Besides Gross's individual talent at the piano, the harmonizations and general effect of the saxophones were quite a treat.

They had not played many numbers before the cafeteria was jammed to the door by a thrilled audience, which gave them a first class greeting. Fred Gross proved equal to the occasion and was most liberal with his selections, playing for over an hour. An added attraction was H. White a budding young tenor, who sang no less than six popular songs for the crowd including "Sweet Little You" and "Don't Want The One I got" which were hits.

The orchestra is composed of the following:
Piano—Fred Gross
Violin and Clarinet—"Bram" Ross
Trumpet—Frank Taylor
Banjo—"Frankie" Slade
Saxophone—Alan Ritchie
Saxophone—Harold Ayers
Taps and Saxophone—Barton Clark

H. Y. RUSSEL, SCIENCE ALUMNUS, IS DEAD

Former Rugbyist And Athlete Passed Away In Vancouver

Still another graduate has been lost to McGill in the person of Hugh Y. Russel, graduate of Science in the early nineties who died yesterday in Vancouver. He was born in Montreal fifty-three years ago and attended McGill. He graduated as a mining engineer and travelled extensively over the world. While at McGill he starred on the senior rugby team and was captain of the Ottawa city league hockey champions. He was the originator and founder of the Graduates' Endowment Fund. He survived by four sons and two daughters, one of whom is Jeff Russel who starred on the McGill rugby team and is now playing flying wing with the M. A. A. Interprovincials.

He also is survived by three brothers, one of whom resides in Toronto, the other two in Montreal.

MCGILL CHORAL SOCIETY PRACTICE

The McGill Choral Society held a very successful practice last night in the Conservatorium Hall. The meeting was called for 7.30 and started promptly with an attendance of between fifty and sixty, almost two thirds of which were young ladies. This was the second practice since the organization of the Society a very short while ago. The programme was selected from the grand opera score of "Faust." Some of the selections were quite difficult and will require a great deal of practice, but others, such as the "Soldiers' Chorus" were well rendered with a splendid swing. The general results shown are excellent and give evidence of splendid possibilities. So far, there is a slight shortage of men, but it is expected that this deficiency will shortly be remedied. Mr. Walter Clapperton, the pianist and conductor of the society wishes to remind prospective members, that the sooner they join, the better as the present members are making rapid progress. The next meeting will be Wednesday the 19 at 8.00 o'clock in the Conservatorium.

All the members of the French Department are expected to be present, and they are giving their fullest cooperation to the executives to make the joint meeting a success.

Another joint meeting of the two French clubs will be held next term; consequently this first meeting is being held comparatively early in the session. It was customary in former years to have only one combined meeting between the Cercle Francais and the Societe Francaise—which generally took place during the second term.

ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAYS TO BE DEBATED

Government to Introduce Deep Waterways Bill

CORNELL MEN HERE

"Mock Parliament to Have International Character" Says Glasco

The coming session of the Mock Parliament on Nov. 22nd is arousing great interest in all quarters. The advent of the Cornell debaters who are taking part gives the function an international character which adds additional glamour to the occasion. The bill which will be brought down by the government will provide for the deepening of the St. Lawrence waterways giving a deep-water route to the head of the Great Lakes. The Cornell men are divided and while two will assist the opposition, the third will lend his powers of oratory to the Government cause and will speak in support of the bill. The question has received a great deal of attention in the United States, particularly in the Eastern States, and the members of the House are sure of hearing an authoritative discussion by debaters particularly well equipped to support or oppose the bill.

The government forces have been rallying to the standard and the whips report that a full following will be on hand to see the bill through. It is rumoured in political circles that the Prime Minister, J. G. Glasco, under his portfolio of Minister of Foreign Affairs will himself pilot the bill. He will be ably assisted by the Minister of Marine and the American visitor will give a concise view of the American attitude in support of the measure. While the opposition has been busy on a barn storming tour of the northern woods in an effort to gain a few votes from the unsuspecting lumbermen, the Government has gained ground in three bye-elections during the last month. With the victory of three Liberal members in what have formerly been considered solid Rationalist boroughs, the effects of that party's ruinous policy of obstruction are becoming apparent. There are also rumours that several prominent members of that party, have, appalled by the inconsistency of their leaders, deserted to the Government ranks and may be heard from in the coming session. All these facts point to the nation-wide satisfaction at the policy of the present Government of progressive and expansive steps in public policy, combined with a diplomatic caution. The effects of the last bill to subsidize the Nova Scotia coal industry have already been felt and reports from the Maritimes indicate a marked improvement in the unemployment situation. The Premier has been deluged with letters of appreciation from both the operators and the workers of this industry.

When interviewed to-day by a Daily reporter, the Premier, J. G. Glasco, admitted that he intended to bring down the bill personally. "This bill," he remarked "is all the more important because it gives scope to the debaters of McGill and Cornell to meet in open conflict on a most important international question. The Cornell men will, without doubt be well equipped to express the sentiments of both American parties, while I can rely upon the Opposition to cover all the stumbling blocks so often aired before. The policy of the Government is to try and cope with the age-old arguments against the case and to take a step forward in the development of this country by giving access to the largest ships to the heart of our country."

The public is to be charged an admittance fee, while all McGill men as members of the House are entitled to the ancient rights and privileges of that house, and are ushered into the lobbies without any financial tax. Preparations have been made for a record crowd and additional seating capacity will be provided in the Government upon the strength of their whips who have gathered in every available member from the outlying constituencies. As a matter of courtesy to the visitors, the Government and Opposition have agreed to dispense with any addresses in French for the coming session and all French members who are preparing speeches on the subject are asked to Anglize their remarks.

INTERVIEW OF HUMOROUS REMINISCENCES

Metropolitan Star Will Sing On Monday

EDMUND BURKE

McGill Graduate Tells Many Amusing Incidents to Daily

In an interview with the Daily yesterday, Mr. Edmund Burke, the Metropolitan Opera Company's star baritone, whom the McGill Music Club is bringing on to sing in concert next Monday, told some amusing incidents in his student and professional careers. This interview was an interesting side light upon the side of Mr. Burke's humorous personality.

Mr. Burke, it will be remembered, is a graduate of McGill. During his student days he was president and leader of the Glee Club. He spoke of the difficulty the Club had in finding a place about the University where it could practise.

"We were denied," he said, "the Science building which, we were told, was no place for delicate instruments, where upon we tried one of the theological colleges, only to be kicked out for singing 'Here's to good old beer drink her down' so, as a last resort we tried the Arts Building. Hardly had we put the question to the janitor, when that worthy gentleman exclaimed, 'For heaven's sake don't, the Building's not safe.'"

When King George V. was crowned in Westminster Abbey, Mr. Burke sang in the Choir. He wore his B. C. L. Hood. After the ceremony some dear old lady asked him, "What opera do you wear that costume in?"

In recognition of his services he was given the Coronation Medal of King George V. During the war he wore it on his uniform, and one day someone asked him what he got it for.

"For singing," was his reply.

"Oh—surely not, you look too healthy to be a singer." When Mr. Burke smiled and tried to look pretty the person added: "You Canadians are so brave yet so modest." He did not stay for any more.

In Hamburg, this summer a man came to Mr. Burke after his concert and said of one of his songs "That's the only thing that ever brought tears to my eyes." To which Mr. Burke sharply replied: "Evidently you didn't try our gas during the war."

In a recent recital in New York, Mr. Burke received many compliments. One lady came up and said to him: "Oh Mr. Burke, can you sing the 'quartet' from Rigoletto?"

With regard to the concert on Monday night, Mr. Burke said he would sing "Hail, Alma Mater" and that he wanted everybody to join in. He regretted that he would not be able to address the Music Club as had been arranged, but promised that he would soon return to speak to it on the humorous side of things behind the scenes in the Metropolitan, Covent Garden, Grand Opera, France Royal Opera, the Hague.

MR. J. J. GAGNIER WILL COACH BAND TO-DAY

The last practice of the Rooters' Band before the game tomorrow at five o'clock. The band will meet in the ball room of the Union and it is expected that there will be a large turnout. It is absolutely essential that every member reports for practice as this is the last opportunity to play together before the game. Last practice saw a very poor attendance and if the band is to retain its high standard of excellence the members will have to show more interest in their work.

Mr. J. J. Gagnier has consented to help the band at this practice and it is hoped that there will be a full attendance to appreciate this excellent advantage.

Mock Parliament, with the students as judges is noticeable and is significant as a step towards the method of debating in the English Universities at the Oxford and Cambridge Unions. The fact that these English debating Unions have turned out some of the foremost orators of the Empire is, in itself, sufficient reason for an imitation on this continent, and the coming session of the Mock Parliament on Nov. 22nd, should be the occasion for an unusually large turnout of the supporters of both parties.

WHEN RIVALS COMPARE NOTES

Much has been written about the amicable relations between Varsity and McGill; and quite rightly too, for only the most cordial feelings do and should exist between Canada's two largest universities. But no son of McGill really thinks that Toronto, or any other University for that matter, is quite the equal of his own Alma Mater. He may concede a close second place to our rival but he has always a comforting feeling that he belongs to the best. When he goes to Toronto he wanders about the campus and casts critical eyes on everything. He visits Hart House and is impressed by its immensity. Its numerous corridors and passages attract him. Its squash courts, gymnasiums and swimming tank make him envious. The Great Hall draws his admiration. The Memorial Tower excites his interest as he walks over to University College. If he is an antiquarian he does not experience that feeling of dusty old age in this building which so delights him in our own Arts Building. Contingent his ramble he admires Knox College and pauses to gaze at the vast pile known as Sincoe and Convocation Halls. He sniffs at the old red School of Science and is not greatly impressed by the glowing eulogy of the various medical buildings given by his Varsity friend as they walk by. In short he returns home more firmly convinced than ever of the superiority of his own University.

When returning the visit his Varsity friend looks through the same sort of spectacles, but, paradoxical as it may seem, does not see as we do. He is also critical and sees fault in our institution which we do not notice. He too returns home firmly convinced that except in a few minor points, his Alma Mater manifests supreme realization of all that is best in higher education. And so the question being so palpable to each, is never discussed and requires no further elucidation.

But there are questions to be settled, and we do meet representatives wearing the blue and white in intercollegiate sports of all kinds and with varying success. When we yield the palm we wear the willow easier in the knowledge of defeat at the hands of good sportsmen who have played the better game and have won by superior excellence in skill and in strategy. When we gain the laurel we are proud to have overcome splendid opposition.

To-morrow we meet in what is always one of the most interesting games of the season, our home football match with Varsity. True, no intercollegiate title depends on the issue, for that honour is remaining yet another year at Queen's. It will be a contest of sport at its best for the game's sake.

CONDENSED COMMENT

There is considerable athletic equipment, the value of which runs into hundreds of dollars, being held by students who have at some time since the beginning of the season procured it from the Athletic Board. This material was loaned by the Athletic Board with the distinct understanding that it was a loan—not a gift, and that it should be returned when it could no longer be utilized this season by the borrower. The fact that many have not taken cognizance of this makes useless the efforts being expended to build up a complete set of equipment. Each year a certain sum is set aside for the purchase of athletic material which, in the ordinary course of events, would guarantee that in a very few years every man participating in athletic contests, interfaculty or otherwise, would be clothed in proper garb for play. Prospects of this being accomplished are doubtful if the present indifference continues. We urge those who are concerned, to co-operate in every manner possible with the Athletic Board in this matter.

It is a recognized fact that many students in the University who are well equipped physically do not enter competitive athletics. The B. W. and F. Club by an innovation, the Tyro Meet, hope to induce such men to develop physiques that may eventually bring them athletic laurels. The prime advantage of the Tyro Meet is that students inexperienced in boxing and Wrestling will be matched with men of their own calibre.

How Careless!

Every member of the family had been stricken with ptomaine poisoning.

"You have certainly been careless about your food in some way," said the doctor to the mother of the family. "Are you sure you haven't left any food standing in tin?"

"Well, we were right careless," the mother admitted. "We went on a picnic the other day and left the lunch in the cooler until dinner time."

TORONTO AND MCGILL MEET IN LAST GAME

Stadium Scene of Final Inter-collegiate Encounter Tomorrow

HUGHES PLAYING
All McGill Regulars Were Out for Scrimmage Practice Yesterday Afternoon

"I'll eat my shirt, my only shirt," sang a strong supporter of the rugby squad, the one famous for the dark into action on his upper lip, last night, "I'll eat my shirt, if the team doesn't beat Varsity on Saturday."

Which would seem to indicate that the team is going to beat Varsity on Saturday.

Coach Newton with Snyder and the rest of the Blue and White will arrive in town this afternoon ready to go into action against the McGill men tomorrow in the last intercollegiate gridiron struggle of the season. All the Toronto regulars are expected to be with the team. Snyder, who in the great Queen's Varsity encounter of last week proved himself worthy of being counted Canada's premier player, will lead the Blue and White attack. Sandy Somerville will probably do most of the kicking for the visitors, while Piquenat should complete their stellar back-field. Kirkpatrick was used at flying wing in their last game and stood out for his magnificent tackling. Mills is the regular quarter of the Blue and White, with Weber, snap, and H. Stollery and S. Snyder, the insides. In the middle wing positions are King and Bales, while Campbell and Duncan are outsiders.

The McGill men held a good scrimmage practice yesterday afternoon. Two full squads were on the field, including all the regulars, and Coach Shaughnessy had them lined up against each other and sent them through a string of plays and formations. Hughes was out in uniform and was doing some kicking although Murphy was given most of the work in this department. There is little doubt now but what Hughes will get into tomorrow's game, and with every other regular in good shape the team should be going well, so that it is hardly likely that the gentleman's shirt with mention of which this article began, should have any fear for its existence being brought to an untimely end. It may rest fairly well content that it will be allowed to wear itself out in the natural course of events.

ARTS RUGBY TEAM IN HARD WORKOUT

Play Amaron's Stanstead Team on Saturday A.M.

The Arts Faculty football team held a workout on the Campus yesterday in preparation to a game with Stanstead on Saturday morning, not all the regulars were out, but those who were indulged in a short scrimmage practice before setting down to signals. A final signal workout will be held today when the plays will be perfected every player should be on hand for this practice because Stanstead is bringing up a strong team and although somewhat lighter should make the Arts team hustle.

Stanstead has been quite successful this year having played five games of which it have won three, tied one and lost one. The first game of the season was with Sherbrooke, High School and resulted in a 0-0 draw.

The second game was with Bishop's College which the Wesleyans won to the tune of 11-6. The next two games were with Sherbrooke and were won by the Methodists. The scores being 21-6 and 11-1 respectively. The last game was a return match with Bishop's and resulted in a 16-7 victory for Bishop's College. This is a very creditable showing especially as the majority of the team had never played Canadian Rugby before the opening of this season. Since Sept. 10th when the term opened the team has been out every day, rain, snow, or darkness never keeping the crowd in. Errol Amaron last years' President of the Students Council and member of McGill's Senior squad has been coaching the team and has rounded the hither-to green team into a smooth working machine.

Father: "Why is it that you are always at the bottom of the class?"
Johnny: "It doesn't make any difference, daddy; they teach the same thing at both ends."—T. C.

A CALL FOR LEADERS IN GIRLS' WORK

Opportunity For Concrete Expression of Ideals
MISS D. L. GASS

Provincial Secretary Addresses Meeting of S.C.A. at R.V.C.

"Every girl born into the world has the right to fourfold development," affirmed Miss D. L. Gass, Girls' Work Secretary for the province of Quebec, at a meeting of the S. C. M. in the R. V. C. Common Room, at four o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The criticism has been levelled against the Student Christian Movement and college students in general that they fail to find practical application of their ideals. That the opportunity for concrete expression of ideals exists for the women students of McGill was shown by Miss Gass.

A former teacher at the Trafalgar Institute, a family welfare and social service worker, a member of the Committee of Sixteen and Girls' Work Secretary for Quebec, Miss Gass knows social service work and girls.

"Girls, I'm willing to bet my life as Donald Hankey would say, on girls," declared Miss Gass. "Girlhood is one of the most potent forces in world movement. Rid your minds of preconceived notions about them. Think of the thousands of girls from 12 to 18 years of age in this city alone girls of all kinds, tall and thin, healthy or consumptive, powdered and painted, perhaps, girls from homes of comfort with books and music and girls from homes into which you wouldn't put hens, who from childhood have drudged from seven in the morning till late at night in factories, offices, or stores for whom home is a room in which as many as a dozen may sleep, whose poor clothes lead them to shun church for whom friends are the people whom you can get the most out of, for whom books are sealed, whose only idea of music is jazz and of pleasure cheap movies and dances. Then consider that these will make up the future women of the nation, moulding events."

Miss Gass read a poem of Henry Van Dyke's and one entitled "The Factories" picturing the young factory workers at their routine mechanical toil, not as boys and girls, but as "little hands." "Have we college students closed the door of happiness and youth and mirth and fun on these other girls? How can we bring into their lives more of comfort, real happiness and the true friendship, which they crave and make them see that Christ's principles really can be lived out and that all of life is not horribly drab and soid. It can be broad and beautiful. Leadership is the helping others to be and do something big in the world."

Sunday School classes, frequently ungraded as to age, lasting only twenty minutes a week are insufficient. People are needed to lead groups once a week at least, to give those cooped up in offices "odds" of fun, recreation and exercise to give vent to their pent-up energy, and to give those who crave culture all that the leaders have derived from books and music. The Canadian Girls-in-Training movement endeavours to meet the need and has groups for girls of all ages from all sorts of homes, but in the entire province of Quebec it has only one hundred and twenty leaders. In Montreal no one could be found to teach basketball once a week to a group of forty working girls at Point St. Charles, or to give all they had in them to another group craving culture and refinement. "The moving finger writes and having writ moves on." Without leaders the groups break up. Tomorrow the want vanishes. It is up to the students in their fortunate circumstances to help out before it is too late. It is not a question of time. One can always find time to do what one wants.

The speaker ended on a note of appeal and at the conclusion of the meeting, when tea was served, an opportunity was given for students to meet and discuss with Miss Gass. Business brought before the meeting concerned the election of a committee of three to provide a musical programme once a month for the Sunday night sings at Strathcona Hall. The Misses L. Chalk, W. Giff, and M. Ferguson were elected. A letter was read from the Council of Religious Education, to which Miss de Bois had been appointed S. C. M. representative.

An address to be given by Mr. A. Williams of Ceylon in December and a tea to be held in his honour on Nov. 30th were announced. Canvassing for S. C. M. funds will begin when the men's campaign opens in December. The publication of the Student Canadian Magazine had been unfortunately delayed in the printing. A questionnaire will be issued by the S. C. M. among the R. V. C. students.

Granik, Science '25 Talks Before Chemistry Club
COAL IS SUBJECT

Describes in Detail The Manufacture of Gas From Coal

Few people stop to think that coal gas, though so very common nowadays, goes through at least five distinct processes and employs an intricate knowledge of chemistry before it reaches the kitchen range. Granik of Science '25 delivered a very instructive and interesting talk on the distillation products obtained from coal, before the Chemistry Club last evening, in room 2 of the Chemistry building.

As a typical example Granik dealt with the two plants controlled by the Montreal Light Heat and Power. The coal used comes from Sandusky, Ohio, and owing to the proximity of the plant to Lachine Canal the transportation charges are cut to a minimum.

The coal is unloaded by means of a clam which is subsequently fed into a hopper. Small cars working on an overhead railway carry the coal to a crusher. This crusher, as the word signifies, crushes the coal to a size most suitable for giving a maximum efficiency in the retorts.

After the coal has been crushed it passes on a belt to the top of the retort-house containing 240 retorts of an elliptical shape. The distillation of the coal results in the formation of a residue in the retorts known as coke, which is constantly removed from the bottom of the retort by means of a spiral conveyor.

A complete distillation occupies about 8 or 9 hours depending on the quality of coal used. The gaseous products formed consisting of the coal gas, tar, ammonia and sulphur compounds pass into a uptake main and thence into a collecting main where the tar separates by gravitation. The gasses pass over to be further purified.

The purification is of utmost importance especially when the gas is to be used for domestic purposes. First the remaining tarry materials are removed, then the ammonia. This is done most successfully by changing it into the sulphate which is in itself an important by-product. Finally obnoxious gases, chiefly compounds of sulphur must be removed after it has been "scrubbed."

The gas is now clean and can be now stored in what is termed the gas holder. From here it is forced through the city mains to the consumer.

The talk was a very comprehensive one and much appreciated by the other members who have not been in such close personal contact with this important industry. Further talk on important industrial processes will be given in the near future.

WESLEYANS WIN GAME AND CHAMPIONSHIP

Wesleyan college won the soccer championships in the Theological by a score of 2-1 by defeating Presbyterian College in the final game of the season yesterday morning at seven o'clock.

During the first half of the game the Wesleyans had the edge of the game and the play was in Presbyterian end of the field most of the time. The first goal was scored by the Wesleyans Tommy Moffat heading the ball between the posts after it had been kicked from a corner by one of his team-mates. Tommy also scored the second goal which made up the Wesleyan score, receiving the ball on a pass he sent it swiftly towards the Presbyterian goal and was so well aimed that the goalie was unable to stop it.

The second half of the game saw the playing more in the Wesleyan end of the field and the Presbyterians succeeded in breaking the Wesleyan

OUR PREVALENT IMMORALITY

If it is immoral to needlessly impair the body's vitality, then lack of sleep is our most prevalent immorality. Students who ought to be firm-nerved, straight-thinking, and clear-eyed, go through their college course with a perpetual tired feeling, irritable, sluggish-eyed, and languid-brained. They sit torpidly through classes and wonder why the professors are so homesome. They slump dully into a chair and feed their minds on whatever takes the least mental effort. They wish that something would happen and wonder why they do not have enough "pep" to start anything. Fatigue poison has lost far more athletic contests for us than has nicotine or alcohol. A few men seem to be able to op-

MEETING OF ENGINEERING INSTITUTE

Interesting Address on Government Commissions
MR. F. C. SABERGE

Member of Quebec Public Service Commission Gives Bi-lingual Address

Nationalization, or state ownership is a rule, declared Mr. Laberge, at the meeting of the Engineering Institute last night. "The only way for a country to successfully control its industries is to be privately owned, and controlled by means of government commissions." With these words Mr. F. C. Saberge, M. E. I. C. consulting engineer of Montreal, and member of the board of the Quebec Public Service Commission, closed his address on the work of the commission to over fifty members of the Engineering Institute of Canada.

Mr. Geo. McLeod, who occupied the chair, briefly introduced the speaker who spoke in both French and English, in accordance with the policy of the Institute to encourage both languages at its branch meetings. He first outlined the growth of the commission, and with which he has been associated since its inception in 1910.

The railway Commission of Canada was its great forerunner, and commission have done notable work in the United States, especially in New York. The Public Service commission was formed to adjudicate questions of dispute between public service organizations and municipalities, such as McKenzie King formed the Industrial Disputes Board to settle questions between the workers and the employers. The Commission has proved so successful that in 1920 its powers were greatly extended, so that now everything which can be put under the title of public utilities is subject to its decisions. For instance, no public service company can change its rates unless it has been sanctioned by the commission. A notable case in this connection was that of the Montreal Tramways Company, which came up a few years ago. Incidentally, this is the biggest case that has been settled by the commission. The great cause of trouble in this case was the cheap workman's tickets, so the commission did away with these, thus making a difference of millions of dollars in the company. Another instance was in Quebec where the electrical company had its wires strung in dangerous places all over the city. The commission forced the company to change all its wires, as a menace to the city. Sometimes it happens that a company supplying some service to the whole community says it cannot continue to supply the demand through lack of capital. The commission in cases like this can either force the company to continue its service, or else it can take over its whole equipment, and hand it over to the municipality to run. This was actually done at Rimouski, the city itself running the electric light plant for a year.

To give an idea of the scope of the work of the commission, Mr. Saberge cited twenty-one cases that were on the September agenda, covering every sort of cases and covering a territory extending from Chicomilco to the border. He stated that to-day he was sitting in Hull Monday he would be in Montreal.

During the course of the lecture, Mr. Laberge emphasized the close relationship of engineers to the board. Many of those present had already appeared as expert witnesses before the commission, which must itself combine the duties of a court, of scientists and economists.

Mr. McLeod thanked the speaker for his interesting address, especially as he had taken the trouble to prepare it in two languages. Next week Mr. H. George is addressing the meeting on "Chain Drives".

combination to such an extent that they scored their one and only goal. Many times the ball came dangerously near the goal but was successfully taken back again.

If the Wesleyans shooting had been more accurate their score might have been higher for often the ball went over the bar or just wide of the goal. Moffat and Sparks of the Wesleyan team deserve special mention.

COMMERCE '25 DINED AT QUEEN'S

Successful Banquet Held by Graduating Class
GOOD ATTENDANCE

Bobby Burland and Ken. Chisholm Supplied Splendid Musical Number

With the strains of the Alma Mater still ringing in their ears, the enthusiasm of good fellowship yet prevalent the Class of Commerce '25 sat down last night to one of the finest banquets ever held at the Queen's Hotel.

Throughout the entire performance Bobby Burland and his saxophone player Ken. Chisholm continued to play their care-free music which made even the sauer sons of Old McGill forget their long neglected lamps and delight in revelling with those of the ardent joy-makers of the year.

When the dinner had but commenced President Henderson addressed his fellow students in crisp and programmatic statements followed by an outburst of applause that could not be mistaken in its meaning. In concluding his remarks the president called for stories, jokes, or recitations from each member of the year. The fulfillment of which task ended in lively competition among the most gifted orators and after dinner speakers.

Many toasts were made and remade, "to make assuredly doubly sure" and all in all to show the general quality of liberality displayed among the Commerce Students as a whole.

After the dinner many college songs were sung. Then a short vaudeville programme served to hold the interest of that practical crowd. The more important numbers rendered were highly approved and encore followed upon encore; the more successful members of the class were Cec. Somerville for his dancing and John Quinlan for his most appropriate rendering of His Own Spring Song.

Such songs, dances and novelty "stunts" were continued until High Ten was sounded upon the gong of Father Time, at which hour the boys meandered to their various digs to burn the midnight oil as is their usual custom.

B.W. AND F. CLUB HOLDING TYRO MEET

Competition for Inexperienced Boxers and Wrestlers

The B. W. and F. Club will inaugurate a new competition this year in the form of a tyro meet. This meet will be open to any undergraduate who has never before boxed or wrestled at college. All others will be excluded. The club hopes by this means to reach many men who though interested in boxing and wrestling have not wished to enter against more experienced opponents. The meet will take place on December the fourth and fifth and will take place before the Freshman meet. The Freshman meet was so very advertised to take place the end of November but in order to allow precedence to the tyro meet the event has been postponed until about the middle of December. However all Freshmen are eligible to enter the tyro meet and a large representation from the first years is expected. Entry lists will be posted in the various faculties on Monday and will remain open until December the second.

Meanwhile Coach Ernie Robinson is open to receive new pupils on all the regular practice and Saturday from five to seven p.m. at Molson Hall. The wrestlers will be welcomed by Coach Smith Wednesdays and Fridays in the Great Hall at Strathcona Hall at five o'clock.

Notice the pens in the hands of the veterans—the men who have been using fountain pens for twenty and thirty years.

Usually it's a Waterman's.

A lost or damaged pen, perhaps an unsatisfactory one, led them to Waterman's. They became pen-wise. With Waterman's they stayed. It is their pen to-day.

History repeats itself. Sooner or later, a Waterman's will come your way.

You will appreciate it's "fit" in the hand; the larger ink container, the smooth, steady flow; the easy-writing, everlasting tip.
